COLLEGE ALUMNAE
SEEK TO KEEP CLUB

Ask Court to Require Performance of Alleged Contract for Rent of House.

Possession of premises at 1607 H street northwest, for clubhouse purposes by the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, is the basis of a suit filed by the association in the District Supreme Court today, against Clarence L. Hay, of New York. The association, represented by Attorney William G. Johnson, alleges that in April, last, it made an agreement with a firm representing Mr. Hay to get possession of the property for a term of five years, at a rental of $5,000 per annum. Plaintiff says it obtained possession last June, and paid one month's rent to the agent of the owner.

It is alleged by the alumnae that Mr. Hay, when he had an opportunity to sell the property made efforts to have the plaintiffs forego the lease. This they refused to do.

The court is told that Mr. Hay has made arrangements to sell the property, and the plaintiff declares that it has spent much money in a campaign to arouse interest among the alumnae in the clubhouse proposition, and other outfit. Plaintiff declares that unless Mr. Hay is compelled to live up to his agreement the organization will be at a great loss.

PUT TAGS ON FISH IN LAKE WISCONSIN
MILWAUKEE, Sept. 23.—Fish may no longer wander lonely as a cloud through the waters of Wisconsin. They are being tagged with metal tags attached to their fish-covers, and hereafter everyone will know just where they go and when. To study the age of fish and the extent of their migrations the Federal Government is conducting through the zoology department of the University of Wisconsin a series of experiments in which thousands of fish of all kinds are being caught in the Madison River, measured, weighed, recorded, and put back into the water. Samples of their scales are being filed with their records, since age may be determined by rings on the scales. When they are caught again the tags and records will indicate how far they have migrated.

STATE CONSTABLES HUNT FOR BEER; OR IS IT BULL?
GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 23.—Was it a bear or only a bull?
That's what the residents of Hecla, near here, are asking following a report that a big brown brute was browsing in the community's favorite berry patch. John Mindesky ran back to town terror stricken with the story that "one of the animals" was just missed handling him a gentle slap.

Meantime, nobody molests the fine "tuscany berries" while the State constabulary is having an enjoyable bear hunt.
